

PODCASTS FOR LEARNING, UNDERSTANDING, INSPIRATION, AND IMAGINATION

Duration: Content (podcasts, videos...) from 10 minutes to 1 hour

Location: Online

Registration Instructions: Free access

Overall theme and context

These videos and podcasts provide keys to understanding and transforming the world. They are arranged in a set of four series:

- News From Tomorrow, a series discussing potential paths towards the future we want.
- Afrique Critique, a series looking at development aid since the 1960s.
- News From Here, a series that looks at transitions from the perspective of development projects.
- At the Side of Others, a podcast showcasing sustainable development partners around the world

In a complex and ambiguous world, we need to listen, to hear stimulating ideas, to be challenged, and to be given guides to action. By sharing knowledge, experience, and inspiring stories, these videos get us thinking about the notion of “transition” in the broadest sense of the term: social revolutions, environmental transformations, changing economic models, innovative behaviours, and new practices.

These series benefit from the expertise of scholars and researchers, as well as artists, athletes, and field workers with hands-on experience. They present their perspectives on the challenges, risks, opportunities, and drivers of change. They are a source of knowledge and inspiration.

Registration details

A range of videos and podcasts lasting from 10 minutes to 1 hour, available all year round.

Target audience

Open to everybody

Partners

Agir pour le Vivant and the Ateliers de la pensée

<https://campus.groupe-afd.fr>

Find this online course:

<https://campus.groupe-afd.fr/en/training-course/podcasts-for-learning-understanding-inspiration-and-imagination/>